

Alan Blake, Executive Director, PACNEXT, since 2012, is sharing their vision of A World without Packaging Waste and engaging industry partners to find better end-of-life solutions for all packaging materials. Prior to PACNEXT, Alan retired from Procter & Gamble, based in Cincinnati, where he had 30 years experience in the consumer goods industry, including 20 years of global packaging design and development expertise. He led P&G's global packaging sustainability program with a focus on their 2020 goals and long-term packaging sustainability vision. Alan has served on the Sustainable Packaging Coalition Executive Committee and the board of GreenBlue and is a member of the board of The Packaging Association (PAC).